November 2025

November was a month of meaningful conversations, planning, and gearing up for a strong finish to the year. With an insightful podcast recording, major events on the horizon, and team week approaching, we're closing out Q4 with momentum and excitement.

Key Events

In The Mix Podcast with Dr. Rosa Keller

This month we had the pleasure of welcoming Dr. Rosa Keller, a highly respected nutritionist, to record an in-depth podcast with our team. Together, we explored important topics around metabolic health, modern nutrition challenges and the role of nitrates and nitrites in food and the body. Her expertise, passion, and refreshing perspective made this one of our most engaging conversations to date. Be sure to check it out on our YouTube channel and social media channels @nulivscience.

Looking Ahead

Food Ingredients Europe – Paris

We're closing out the year on a global stage at Food Ingredients Europe in Paris, one of the most important international events in food, nutrition, and ingredient innovation. Our team is excited to connect with global partners, explore new trends, and share the science behind our ingredients.

Closing Out the Year Strong

As we move into the final month of 2025, we're grateful for the growth, relationships, and breakthroughs this year has brought. With new ingredients launching, expanding partnerships, and exciting projects lined up for 2026, the future has never looked brighter.

Thank you to our partners, clients, and friends for another incredible year. NuLiv Science doesn't stop, let's finish 2025 with purpose.
